GENERAL INFORMATION

W.E.B. OIL is a highly refined emulsifiable mineral oil to be used as a diluent or carrier. Use where diesel oil, fuel oil, kerosene or other carriers are recommended.

DIRECTIONS FOR USE

BASAL BARK APPLICATIONS: This product should be mixed with oil soluble or miscible herbicides as allowed by the manufacturer's herbicide label. Methods including thinline, streamline, high volume and low volume basal bark applications can be made with W.E.B. OIL, plus properly labeled herbicides. Suggested herbicide mixing rates for using W.E.B. OIL as the exclusive carrier range from 99% W.E.B. OIL plus 1% herbicide to 25% W.E.B. OIL plus 75% herbicide depending upon brush and the herbicide label.

Refer to the herbicide label for specific recommendations. Most basal applications are a directed spray of the mixture to the lower 18 inches of stems of brush and trees.

DIRECTED OR BROADCAST STEM AND FOLIAGE APPLICATIONS: W.E.B. OIL can be used as the sole carrier or in an oil + water mixture with properly labeled herbicides. Up to 40% W.E.B. OIL can be used in a water + herbicide mixture. Follow the herbicide label directions for suitability and mixing procedures. Since an emulsion is formed, constant agitation is required to prevent the mixture from separating.

When W.E.B. OIL is used as the sole diluent with an oil soluble herbicide, a true solution is formed and agitation is still recommended. Always follow the herbicide label recommendations for proper rates and volume per acre. If the compatibility of a new mix is not known, do a jar test before batching larger quantities. To minimize spray drift, use coarse spray patterns and/or special equipment designed to minimize fine particle production.

Note: Try a small plot or consult university extension foresters or other experts before spraying over the top of desirable plants. Read and follow all herbicide label directions regarding the use of oils as carriers.
